

Children of Destiny
NICARAGUA
SANDY CARTER

August 2007

This is always a very busy time of year for us here in Nicaragua, but this year has exceeded all previous years. Again we have been blessed with several energetic and capable work teams, filling in the many gaps with expertise and love! I have personally been encouraged by the visits from many “old” and dear friends who have physically and spiritually worked beside me these past few months.

Infants in Orphanage

All of us have been touched and inspired by the daily operations of the baby orphanage. Everyone has taken turns holding, rocking and caring for the babies and toddlers there. The four youngest are now about six to eight weeks old...three boys and one girl. It has been amazing to watch how quickly they are growing and responding to love.

Another exciting development this summer is the first annual Globe Boot Camp. It is being held on our farm in Los Cedros for two weeks. We have almost 20 eager students who are being taught about missions from the Word. They are having daily classroom time, personal and group devotions and physical training and exercise. The goal for the camp is to challenge them mentally, physically and spiritually as they pursue a deeper relationship with God in preparation for the mission field.

Sandy going through Obstacle Course

It is an answer to a personal prayer of mine to be able to host this training experience for Globe International. Although I have been involved in missions since childhood, I am learning so much from the excellent instruction and cutting edge methods they are presenting.

Due to recent events in the Nicaraguan government and in some of our Nicaraguan co-workers, we are currently making a few structural changes. Until now, I have maintained our legal organizational covering under a local non-profit organization. However, it has become very clear that the Lord is directing us to start our own non-profit organization and to establish ourselves before the Nicaraguan government.

Please pray for us that we will have favor with the government as we prepare for and work through this transition.

It is my priviledge working with you to reach these children for Christ!
